4) You will receive an email with 50 account log in names and passwords.
5) You need to give your students their information to log in to their account.

Tips for Making this Work

- Print the list of accounts, cut the slips and hand them out to students.
- Keep a master list of student names and accounts.
- Have students change their profile name to their TOPIC NAME or STUDENT NAME.
- Create your own glog to give students an example.
- When giving presentations, log in as the teacher, then have students pull their glogs up and present. This will save tremendous amount of time instead of logging in and out.
- Talk to other teachers who have used this before!

Integration Ideas

- Great project for partners. They can collaborate from home or both work on the project and make changes.
- Students can view the work of all their classmates. Incorporate students reading other students' work independently to learn about many topics.
- Students can use them to supplement a presentation.
- Provide students with the option to use glogster along with several other options to meet all learners' needs.
- Use online resources to find rubrics other teachers have created for assessments. (EX: http://butlertech.wikispaces.com/file/view/Glogster+Rubric.pdf)
